The nail would be found at last, but by that time he would have lost the hammer "Where's the hammer? What did I do with the hammer? Great heavens! Seven of you, gaping round there, and you don't know what I did with the hammer!"

We would find the hammer for him, and then he would have lost sight of the mark he had made on the wall, where the nail was to go in, and each of us had to get up on the chair beside him, and see if we could find it, and we would each discover it in a different place, and he would call us all fools, one after another, and tell us to get down. And he would take the rule, and re measure, and find that he wanted half of thirty-one and three-eighths inches from the corner and would try to do it in his head, and go mad. Aunt Maria would mildly observe that next time Uncle Podger was going to hammer a nail into the wall, she hoped he'd let her know in time, so that she could make arrangements to go and spend a week with her mother while it was being done.

"Oh you women, you make such a fuss over everything." Uncle Podger would reply. "Why, I like doing a little job of this sort" Finally about midnight, the picture would be up-very crooked and insecure, and everybody dead beat and wretched except a proud Uncle Podger !

Mayuri's success encouraged him to dub the film in Tamil and Malayalam and remake it in Hindi as Nache Mayuri, and Sudha Chandran made her debut as a film star She has since acted in many films in several languages, and has produced a Kannada film. Kalabhimani, based m the true life of Balanna, a deal artiste who went on to become a great character actor. (Balanna, 74, has 400 Kannada films to his credit).

Sudha's success was followed by invitations for shows from all over the world. She has danced in several European countries, Canada, and the Middle East: A few years ago she went to the United States on an eight performance tour around the country. She remembers a young girl who, after the Washington concert, struggled through the crowds around the dancer, and with tears streaming down her face, silently handed her a card that read, Congratulations. You have made it!

Did the audience know her story everywhere? No, not everywhere in fact, at some of the performances, people learned about it only during the interval and after that there would be a wonderful, heart-warming response but then they have had their heroes too. Did any of them accept defeat? Like them, I have also believed in asking, "What next? Rather than "Why me?" If Helen Keller could overcome her handicap, that is what I have always told myself."

That, Sudha remarks, is what she replied to her Indian fans, thousands of whom wrote to her after the release of her films. People wrote to say that they were inspired by my story and that it had given them new hope. I do feel thrilled that my message has got across. And what is that message? The seed of achievement lies in the human mind. When this realization comes, there is no looking back. Once I decided that my handbag was not going to stop me from dancing, that was it.
